 The mission of Practical Ecommerce is to publish independent editorial, commentary, and instruction to help ecommerce merchants. For companies that sell products and services to that audience, we offer five online advertising opportunities. They are: Sponsored Seminars, Display Ads, Email Newsletter Ads, Dedicated Email Drops, and Brand Posts.

SPONSORED ONLINE SEMINARS

Practical Ecommerce produces two types of online educational seminars: "Custom" and "Essential Skills." The mission of both is to help ecommerce merchants better understand a topic that will help their businesses. Practical Ecommerce promotes these seminars on our site, in our newsletter, in our social media channels, and in dedicated drops to our email subscribers. Seminar presentations are prerecorded and aired during the actual event. Only the question-and-answer segment is live.

CUSTOM ONLINE SEMINAR

For both types of seminars, we introduce the sponsor at the outset of the presentation and allocate three minutes at the end for the sponsor to explain its products and services. Qualified sponsors can participate — if they choose — in the Q&A segment. Sponsors receive each registrant's name, email address, title, telephone number, and company affiliation. Sponsors of Essential Skills seminars also receive a display ad, at 300x600 pixels, on the relevant seminar page for its duration of roughly 12 months.

"Custom" seminars address topics of interest to our sponsors, who select the topics in collaboration with Practical Ecommerce. Our editorial staff then plans and presents those topics in an independent, transparent manner. Custom seminars last 30 minutes — roughly 20 minutes for our presentation, three minutes for the sponsor's segment, and roughly seven minutes for the live question-and-answer period at the end.

"Essential Skills" seminars address the fundamentals of launching, managing, and growing an ecommerce business. These topics — from novice to expert — are chosen and presented by our editorial staff. Participants can attend an initial "Essential Skills" seminar for free. After that, attendees must pay to view the recording, which will remain on PracticalEcommerce.com for approximately 12 months. Essential Skills seminars last roughly one hour.

BRAND POSTS

Brand Posts consist of articles created or commissioned by advertisers in collaboration with Practical Ecommerce. Brand Posts enable advertisers to expose their leadership, expertise, products, and services to a wide audience of ecommerce professionals.

Practical Ecommerce publishes up to six Brand Posts concurrently. Each post appears on the site for 12 weeks and is clearly labeled "Sponsored," "From Our Advertisers," or similar verbiage. Each post resides on its own page, with no competing sidebars or advertisements. The maximum length of each Brand Post is 1,500 words plus optional images, infographics, and videos.

Brand Posts are promoted to visitors of PracticalEcommerce.com on the home page, in right sidebars on all article pages, and in internal site search results. Each of those promotions — "Promotional Impressions" — consists of the advertiser's name and the post's headline and custom image, all of which link to the actual Brand Post.

Each Brand Post receives no less than 400,000 Promotional Impressions per month, or 1.2 million in total.

Additionally, the headline and custom image of all Brand Posts appear in Practical Ecommerce's email newsletter once per month for three months. Each Brand Post also receives three separate monthly entries to Practical Ecommerce's principal social media sites: Twitter, Facebook, and LinkedIn. Brand Posts are indexed by Google, Bing, and other search engines and appear in relevant search results for each.

Brand Posts follow guidelines set forth by Google, Interactive Advertising Bureau, and other reputable organizations for transparency and disclosure. Links within Brand Posts are "nofollow" and do not, therefore, transfer PracticalEcommerce.com's PageRank or other authority signals.

The content of Brand Posts expresses the opinions of advertisers, who can compose their own Brand Posts or, alternatively, Practical Ecommerce can compose on advertisers' behalf. Regardless, the content does not necessarily reflect the views of Practical Ecommerce and it cannot undermine our editorial integrity and standing.
